FRICK ALL RIGHT.

Though Wounded Seriously, He Will Recover—The Situation at Homestead is Unchanged.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 25.—Chairman Henry C. Frick, of the Carnegie company, did not come down to his office this morning, as he jokingly assured his associates that he would when he was carried to the ambulance on Saturday night. Nor is it probable that he will be seen at his desk for many months to come. Reports from his residence this morning are to the effect that he passed a restful night despite the closeness of the atmosphere. His extraordinary vitality was strikingly demonstrated yesterday, for although it was the hottest day that Pittsburg has experienced in nearly ten years, his wounds gave him apparently little trouble while mentally he was bright and active. His wounds were examined and dressed this morning, but there were not the faintest traces of blood poisoning or of any greater amount of inflammation than was expected under the circumstances, and results of the examination were decidedly encouraging both to his surgeons and to the patient. After the examination Mr. Frick asked for the morning papers and read with interest the accounts of the movements of the wouldbe assassin during Sunday and the interviews had with him. As to the future of the sufferer, the surgeons say that it will not be possible for him to leave his bed even to walk about the room for a month or six weeks at the earliest. It may be longer, but unless blood poisoning or some other unlooked-for development should supervene, they believe that he will improve rapidly and recover completely. They are particularly concerned about the gashes on the under side of the leg, just above the knee, which were made by the assailant's knife. These almost severed the tendons, and will occasion excrutiating pains at intervals for many weeks to come. Although the corps of surgeons take turn in attendance upon the wounded man, and they include the most eminent in the city, it was decided last night to telegraph to an eminent New York specialist asking him to come here at once to make a personal examination of the patient and advise concerning the treatment. This morning, however, a reply was received that the specialist in question, but whose name the surgeons will not give out, had gone to California, and thereupon it was decided to seek the aid of another noted surgeon, who, it is said, is at present in Washington. The fact has been developed that on Saturday Mr. Frick received in his morning mail a letter which informed him that he would die before the next day. He passed it over to one of his associates with the joking remark, "I have but twenty-four hours to live." Afterwards he placed the missive in one of the pigeon holes in his desk. He referred to the matter last night and today it is being investigated. It is not thought, however, to have any connection with Berkman's action. The would-be assassin was quietly taken last night from the central station to the county jail, where he will remain until his trial in September. He was booked for felonious assault, the maximum penalty for which is but seven years, but other charges are to be added. He will remain in the jail until his trial in September. A week from today he will be brought before Alderman Gripp, but this will be a formality only to meet with the requirements of the law. He admitted to Warden McAleese that Berkman was not his right name, although he had borne it since his arrival in this country, but the closest questioning could not induce him to reveal the name by which he was known in his native land. There is a great deal of mystery surrounding his recent movements, which has yet to be penetrated. At the time of his arrest he said that he had only come from New York the day before, and had been but one night in the city. Yet he has been identified by several men, who have seen him over and around the Carnegie building for a full week. When first seen he was dressed like a tramp and in the interval he must have received remittances to enable him to purchase the new suit of clothes and the revolver and the dirk. When arrested his entire resources was a five cent nickle. It is also said that he was seen at Homestead on Wednesday. The local detectives are bending all their energies to discover whether or not the murderous Russian had any accomplices with him in this city and a vigorous search is being made for a man who answers the description of Amos Stamm, who was Berkman's boon companion in New York and who is said to have disappeared from his usual haunts in that city. When Berkman was dogging the entrance to the Dusquene club, where Mr. Frick lunched on Saturday, he was accompanied, so say several of the members, by a man, whom they recollect as being attired in a suit of blue black cloth, but of whose facial characteristics they are unable to give any clear description. It is thought that this fellow was an accomplice of the anarchist and was waiting at the bottom of the stairs with the intention of assisting him to escape, but took flight after the firing of the shots and the assembling of the crowd. Berkman, however, appears to have been alone when he registered at the Merchants' hotel on Friday night. Superintendent of Police O'Mara left for New York last night for the purpose of conferring with Inspector Steers, regarding the possibility of the attack being the outgrowth of a conspiracy among that section of the anarchists to which Berkman belonged. He took with him several photographs of the prisoner and also, it is believed, private papers found in his clothing, which are likely to prove of value in the investigation at the New York end. Concerning the latter matter, however, the police authorities at this end refuse to say a word.

The action of Judge Magee this morning in admitting O'Donnell to bail was just what had been anticipated by those who heard the evidence adduced by the prosecution on Saturday. The court reviewed this evidence at length, cited the law on the question, and announced as his conclusion that no case of murder in the first degree could be made out against the prisoner. It was apparent, he said, that O'Donnell was not an actual participant in the action. Although there are grounds for the belief that he was a sympathizer, there was not enough evidence to justify an indictment for murder in the second degree. He hoped, however, that when the defendant came to trial he would be able to show that he was in no wise guilty of participation in an affray that had resulted in the loss of so many lives. It was the court's imperative duty to admit the defendant to bail and that bail would be fixed at $10,000. The decision was received with a buzz of satisfaction from the crowd in the court room, and it was fully a minute before the tipstaves could secure silence. It was then announced that no evidence would be offered against Ross, Foy and Allen, and bail in the same amount was fixed for each defendant. Bail was promptly given for all four prisoners and they were released.

Robert Sterling, the starved, shabbily dressed young fellow from Chicago, who was arrested on second avenue last night while telling a small crowd that he had walked all the way from that city to kill Andrew Carnegie, will be sent to the work house today. When taken to the station he fainted for want of food and afterwards admitted that he had eaten nothing since Friday. He says he has lived in Chicago for years, had worked on one of the cable lines and was in the Haymarket square during the riot. The pockets of his clothing were entirely empty, save an ugly looking knife.

The orders signed by Mr. Frick and posted at the Homestead works this morning, to the effect that men returning to work would be insured against attack, and which was given in the United Press dispatches of last night, is regarded as the final peace offering of the firm to the strikers. In this connection a member of the firm makes an important statement. "Even if Mr. Frick should die," he said, "the policy of the management in the present crisis will be strictly adhered to. The statement that Mr. Carnegie is not in full accord with Mr. Frick in the course the latter has pursued of late, is absolutely and unqualifiedly untrue. It can be proven beyond peradventure, if necessary, that Mr. Frick has been but carrying out the plans formulated by Mr. Carnegie himself. As for our present position, we are still willing to confer with such of our employes as are worthy of our confidence, but we will do no talking through a conference committee of men not in our employ. Nor will we recognize the assumption that these strikers have a right to permanent employment whether there services are satisfactory or not. Hereafter we will do business on the old fashioned plan that we can hire any man who wishes to work for us."

It is understood that orders will be issued today by the Carnegie company to the superintendent and foreman of the Dusquene mill to start up at once with non-union laborers. The men at this mill struck on Friday out of sympathy for the men at Homestead.

BERKMAN'S ACCOMPLICE ARRESTED.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 25.—2:10 p. m—Detective Shore has just arrived at central station with a man who he arrested a short time ago as an accomplice of Anarchist Berkman. He says this man has been with Berkman since July 14. He will allow no one to see him or will he give any information concerning the place of arrest or anything whatever concerning the man, except the fact that he is an accomplice of Berkman.

HEART FAILURE.

Treasurer Brodhead Stricken Down With the Disease.

KINGSTON, N. Y., July 25.—Nicholas E. Brodhead, treasurer of Ulster county, died early today of heart trouble after an illness of a few days. Mr. Brodhead was treasurer of the Ulster county Savings institution, lately wrecked, and now doing business under the order of the court. It was through his efforts that the crookedness of Ostrander and Trumpfbor, the bank wreckers, was first discovered.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

And a Conflagration Follows, Entailing a Loss of $45,000.

UTICA, N. Y., July 25.—Advices from Carthage state that lightning struck a building in Carthage last night and a conflagration followed, which destroyed $15,000 worth of property. It was gotten under control early this morning. Carthage was almost totally destroyed by fire in 1885.

Mrs. George Lamb, of West Jefferson street, and her daughter, went to Chicago today to visit the former's sister.

CHICAGO, July 25.—Deaths from the excessive heat bids fair to be more numerous today than yesterday. During the first half hour of business in the coroner's office this morning nearly a dozen deaths were reported. Several of these were of deaths that occurred yesterday, but there were three that occurred this morning. The local signal service officials will give no promise of immediate change for the better in the temperature.

DETROIT, July 25.—Fifteen cases of heat prostration have been reported as the result of the hottest day of the year in this city. At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon standard thermometers registered 102 degrees in the shade, while the mercury in the weather bureau office, at the top of a ten story building rose to 98 degrees. The heat has been frightful, unaccompanied by the slightest cooling breezes. Among the cases of prostration reported three will prove fatal, John Hughes, aged forty; Annie Carson, aged ten, and Wm. Bell, aged fifty-four.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—The indications are that continued warm weather will prevail over the regions east of the Mississippi and in the southwest, probably with local showers in the lake regions, New England and the Middle Atlantic states.

FIGHT AT A WEDDING.

The Bride Shot in the Side and Other Persons Injured.

MAHONY CITY, Pa., July 25.—John Lipski, a young Polander, was married at 2 o'clock yesterday morning to Miss Mary Kolsovitch. Among the guests were Michael Felinski and John and Peter Kolsovitch, brothers of the bride. All drank freely and soon a dispute arose between two of the men as to which of the wedding gifts was the most valuable. They came to blows and Lipski, who was just passing through the room with his bride, stepped forward to part the men. Then the row became general and knives and revolvers were used. One of the shots struck the bride in the side and she fell to the floor where she was trampled upon by the fighters. The neighbors summoned the police, who surrounded the house and arrested all who had not in the meantime fled. Mrs. Lipski and her two brothers, were seriously wounded. Lipski was stabbed in many places but none of his wounds are considered serious. Many others were cut but were carried home by their friends before the arrival of the police. Twenty-seven of the participants were arrested, several of whom bore ugly cuts.

PINKERTON MEN.

The Waiters' Union Commences a Crusade Against Them.

NEW YORK, July 27.—A vigorous crusade against Pinkerton men, the initiative of which has been taken by the members of the New York Waiters' union, has just been started in this city. The waiters claim that Pinkerton men are employed at several nearby summer resorts, notably at Manhattan Beach and General Islands. That this is a clear violation of the anti-Pinkerton law recently passed by the legislature of this state, and therefore it behooves all organized labor to insist upon a rigid enforcement of the laws. According to the waiters, Pinkerton men not only act as policemen at these summer resorts, but also play the part of waiters and thus deprive the many union waiters of a livelihood. As a remedy for this state of things an appeal to Governor Flower to enforce the anti-Pinkerton law and consistent boycott of all summer resorts at which Pinkerton men are employed are proposed.

DISPUTED TITLES.

Wabash and the Missouri, Kansas and Eastern Roads at Swords Points.

ST. CHARLES, Mo., July 25.—The situation caused by the seizure by the Wabash railroad of a strip of road between the St. Charles car shops and the Missouri river, and claimed by the Missousi, Kansas and Eastern road, is interesting and exciting. The seizure was made during Saturday night. After the Wabash force had torn up and rebuilt about 200 feet of track, the Missouri, Kansas and Eastern engine ran down the track and penned in the Wabash corps. The opposing forces have been standing guard ever since. Both engines have been under a full head of steam for thirty-six hours and each side has been waiting to see what the other will do. An application will be made to the courts this morning to decide the ownership of the track in dispute. The strip of road-bed is small, but it is at present the only way for the Missouri, Kansas and Eastern road to get through St. Charles on its way into St. Louis.

LABOR NEWS.

The Carpenters After the Scalp of Secretary McGuire—Smelting Men on a Strike.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 25.—It is stated in labor circles that when the national convention of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners meet in St. Louis on August 1st an attempt will be made to depose P. J. McGuire, secretary of that organization, and also vice president of the Amalgamation of labor. A resolution was abopted by local union 306 recently charging that the disasters which had befallen the order were due to the mismanagement of McGuire's office. The district council has unanimously indorsed the resolution and it will be formally presented to the national committee of the brotherhood in St. Louis by a delegate from this city. In the event of McGuire's re-election the convention will be asked to remove the secretary's office from Philadelphia. McGuire has become unpopular with the trade, because since his incumbency in the office at this place the cause of the carpenters has not prospered. McGuire ordered the carpenters' strike in the spring of 1891 for eight hours and increased wages, and the strike proved to be a failure, disaster falling upon all participants in the movement. As the result the membership decreased to a few hundred.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 25.—In consequence of a notice from the proprietors of the St. Louis Smelting works to their employes that the company would not be responsible for any sickness or accident to employes as a result of their dangerous occupation, the workmen, about eighty in number, went on a strike Saturday. The proprietors feared an assault on the works, and invoked police protection. Yesterday afternoon Captain Keebler, with fifteen policemen went to Cheltham, where the works are located, and ordered the strikers to disperse. The police were met with a volley of stones and sticks. Finally Captain Keebler directed the police to charge the strikers. This was done, and after the police wielded their clubs with vigor for five minutes the crowd scattered in every direction. A force of police were left at the works last night, but no trouble occurred.

SOLDIERS IN TENTS.

Indiana's Militia in Camp Near Frankfort, Ind.

CAMP CHASE, FRANKFORT, July 25.—Camp Chase was formally opened this morning at 7 o'clock. General Ruckle and staff arrived last evening and went into camp immediately.

The quartermaster's department presented a busy scene. There are ten large hospital tents full of bacon, coffee, cooked corn beef, etc., ready to be issued. Scattered about over an acre of ground are bundles of tents and tent poles, camp kettles, boxes of blankets, and many different kinds of camp equipage.

The regimental quartermaster details arrived yesterday; the detail of the First regiment, under Regimental Quartermaster Beirhause, was the first to arrive. Camp equipage for the regimental headquarters were established, the equipage for the various regiments was issued to their respective details.

The camp is situated a mile and a half from Frankfort, in a large woods and adjoining fields. The company tents are all in the open fields, with the company officers' tents in the rear; then the majors' tents, colonels' tents and N. C. officers' tents following in order. The First, Fourth and Third regiments are encamped in a large field to the south of the woods, the Second to the northeast and the artillery to the west, with the quartermaster's department in the middle of the camp and brigade headquarters 200 yards to the rear of quartermaster's department.

All the companies are expected to be in camp by today, the Fort Wayne companies arriving this afternoon.

SHOT HER HUSBAND

Upon His Return Home From a Three Days' Drunk.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 25.—Mrs. Ida Sadler, living at No. 34 Lasalle street, shot and instantly killed her husband, Marcus, at noon yesterday. Sadler had been drinking and returning home after an absence of three days, he had some words with his wife. On removing his coat, his wife saw a photograph of a woman in his pocket. She demanded the picture and the name of the woman. Sadler refused to give either and his wife seized a revolver and threatened to kill him. Sadler attempted to get the revolver from his wife, and in the scuffle the weapon was discharged, the ball entering Sadler's breast near the heart, killing him almost instantly. Mrs. Sadler claims the shooting was accidental.

WHEELING, W. Va., July 25.—At 10 o'clock last night Sam Winesburg was murdered and his wife fatally wounded by Mike Moylan and John Moylan, his son. The tragedy occurred at the residence of the Moylan family, about four miles from this city, and was not known until midnight. The murderers are under arrest, but details are lacking except that the victims were shot.

DIDN'T RESIGN.

The Expected Resignation of Chairman W. J. Vesey Failed to Materialize.

In speaking of the meeting of the republican central committee Saturday THE SENTINEL stated that a rumor was current that Chairman W. J. Vesey had been induced by Mr. Harrison's friends to reconsider his intention of resigning. Such proved to be the case. When the committee met the resignation of Mr. Clark Fairbank as committeeman from the First ward was received and accepted and Postmaster Higgins endorsed as his successor. Ed Shellenbarger also tendered his resignation as committeeman from the Seventh ward, but the vacancy was not filled.

Mr. Vesey, however, failed to hand in his resignation and the combination was "busted."

Administration republicans are highly elated over the turn in affairs, while the anti-Harrison republicans are, to say the least, very warm. They say this action of Mr. Vesey's has widened the breach in the republican ranks and the committee need expect no aid from them the coming campaign. Several of them who had merely intended to refrain from voting for Harrison have now signified their intention of voting for either Cleveland or Weaver.

HOOSIERS UNITED.

The Outlook in Indiana for the Democracy Was Never Brighter.

Three weeks ago Chairman Taggart, of the democratic state central committee, selected twenty-six prominent democrats and sent them by twos into all the congressional districts, to visit the counties and make a report of the party's condition. The work has just been completed and written reports filed with the secretary. They show that the party is united, and, with but two exceptions, every county in the state is in excellent condition and the organizations perfect.

The exceptions are Daviess county, where Auditor Lavelle's shortage and subsequent burning of the court house have demoralized the party, and Tipton county, where the people's party has gained unexpected strength through democratic dissatisfaction with the new tax law. In a number of counties the democracy has nominated farmers for the legislature and this is bringing back many who voted with the people's party two years ago. In all the counties where the preliminary poll has been completed the result was a decided gain over the vote of 1888, and the remarks by the poll takers indicate that the tariff legislation of the last session has been the chief cause of this change.

CRUSHED A FOOT.

Frightful Accident of Which Peter Harnischfeger was the Victim.

Peter Harnischfeger, a boiler washer in the Pittsburg round house, was the victim this morning of a painful accident. While assisting in removing a large drive wheel axle from an engine pit the heavy weight slipped and fell upon Mr. Harnischfeger's right foot, crushing the big toe flat and pinching off the tips of the adjoining two toes. The injured man was removed to the store room, where his sufferings were alleviated as much as possible until the arrival of the company's surgeon, when he was taken to his home, No. 78 Buchanan street, in his hack. Amputation of the big toe, at least, will be necessary. Mr. Harnischfeger is about sixty years old and has been employed in the Pittsburg shops in his present capacity for over twenty years. He has been extremely unfortunate of late, his wife being very sick and himself unable, through failing health, to work more than half the time. The old man bore up remarkably well under the painful operation of dressing the wounded foot. Not a murmur escaped him.

RUNAWAY HORSES.

Frightful Accident Which Befel a Party of Four—Anna Bonner Seriously Injured.

Sunday afternoon occurred the first serious runaway accident as a result of running electric cars. Miss Anna Bonner, who with her sister, Ida, has been a guest at the Saratoga hotel, received injuries which are very serious, and may yet prove fatal.

Last Saturday afternoon Edgar Bonner, a brother of the young women, came over to visit them. Yesterday young Bonner, with a friend, Glenn Gilbert, went to Leo & Fulton's livery stable and engaged a carriage for the purpose of enjoying a ride about the city and suburbs, in company with the young ladies. While the party were driving out West Main street, near the corner of Cherry street, the horses became frightened at an electric car, became unmanageable and tore westward at a furious rate. The carriage struck several obstructions and one wheel was torn off. When the team reached the Grand Rapids overhead bridge Bonner, who held the lines, found it impossible to guide the runaways and the animals tried to pass, one on each side, a post that helped support the bridge. The tongue of the carriage struck the post and was broken to pieces, but the horses were stopped and Bonner jumped out uninjured. Gilbert and the young ladies were injured, Anna being unconscious. The young man and Ida escaped with a few bruises. The injured were brought to the city and Anna taken to Hope hospital, where Dr. McOscar made an examination of her injuries. The scalp was lacerated and a depression indicated a possible fracture. The patient remained unconscious most of the night, but revived this morning, and is now in a fair way to recover.

SEVERAL OTHERS.

Peter Nusbaum, of Spy Run avenue, was injured in a runaway accident yesterday.

While Rev. B. A. Sutton was out driving in company with his wife and child, last evening, the horse became frightened and ran away. Mrs. Sutton and child were seriously injured. Dr. Harrod attended.

Brakeman Cline, of the Grand Rapids and Indiana road, who resides on Hough street, was pinched between the deadwoods while attempting to make a coupling at Richmond, Ind., and seriously injured. He was brought to this city, and Dr. McOscar reduced a fractured rib.

Thomas Morton, the Columbia street merchant, suffers from the effects of a badly injured eye. Dr. John Seaton is attending him.

Samuel, a son of G. W. Smith, badly injured his hand Saturday and Dr. J. E. Miller amputated two fingers.

GRAVE CHARGES

Of Theft Hang Over the Heads of Western Conductors.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 25.—Within ten days every passenger train running over the Missouri Pacific system will carry a collector and the functions of the conductor will not number among them that of attending to the revenues of the road. Owing to rumors of steals which have prevailed for months and the recent culmination of events, the officials of the line in question have decided to adopt most heroic measures and put collectors on their trains. Since the discovery of this system of stealing by the joint work of the passenger agents and the conductors, the local ticket sales on the Santa Fe, Missouri Pacific, Rock Island and other roads has doubled. The passenger agents who were caught conveying passengers to the implicated conductors have not yet been discharged, but as soon as the detectives get all of their evidence together the ax will fall. The other roads have not decided whether to adopt the Missouri Pacific's plan and put on collectors or hire an entire new force of conductors and passenger agents.

STEEL RAILS.

The Bessemer Steel Plant of Carnegie Will Make Them.

DUQUESNE, Pa., July 25.—It is reported that extensive repairs are soon to be made at the Bessemer steel plant of the Carnegie company at this place. The story is that the owners of the plant have decided to convert it into a steel-rail manufacturing plant. All orders for billets have been cancelled and no more will be made there. The plant when put in operation by the Allegheny Bessemer Steel company, which built it, and after operating it for a time sold it to the Carnegie company, manufactured nothing but steel rails and was considered the finest improved steel rail plant in the country. The purchasers soon turned it into a billet plant. Why the change is made is not given out.

OFF FOR CAMP.

Departure of the Rifles, Zollinger Battery and First Regiment Band for the State Encampment.

The Fort Wayne Rifles, Zollinger battery and First Regiment band left this morning via the Lake Erie and Western road for the state encampment which opens tomorrow at Frankfort, Ind. This town is the pretty county seat of Clinton county. The camp will be located about a mile west of the city limits and is all that could be desired.

The Rifles, Zollinger battery and the First Regiment band left this morning at 7:30 on a special train on the Lake Erie road. At Muncie they transferred to another branch of the same system, and arrived at Frankfort this afternoon. They marched immediately to the camp ground and proceeded to erect tents and do guard duty. The battery's guns were shipped Friday, and await manipulators. The special train will carry the Angola, Waterloo, Auburn, Fort Wayne and Portland companies to Muncie, where that and the Richmond company will join. These eight companies will have a lively time and the First Regiment band, of this city, which accompanied the battery, will make things pleasant for the boys. Lieutenant Todd, of the Bluffton Light Guards, took the advance squad to Frankfort Saturday, and has made preparations for the incoming soldiers. Lieut. L. L. Martz, Quartermaster Sergeant J. B. Plessinger and Sergeant Ransom Allen, of Ossian, were among those in advance.

QUARTER CENTURY OLD.

A Banner Day for Emanuel's Next Sunday—Special Services.

The Emanuel's Lutheran church, of which Rev. C. Gross is the popular and beloved pastor, stands completed after an expenditure of $15,000 in the way of improvements, and next Sunday special services, appropriate to the observance of the congregation's twenty-fifth anniversary, will be held within its walls. The old church has been completely renovated, new pews and windows placed, new carpets laid and the walls have been beautifully frescoed, presenting as a whole a decidedly cheerful transformation. Above all a large new pipe organ from the house of King & Son, Elmira, N. Y., will peal forth its joyous melody.

No more fitting time for the reopening of Emanuel's church after these improvements could be chosen than upon the occasion of celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the congregation, which fortunately comes at this time. Therefore, next Sunday will be a banner day in the history of the church. There will be three services. The first will begin at 10 a. m., Rev. Juengel, pastor of Zions church, officiating. The second service will begin at 3 p. m., Professor Zucher, of Concordia college, presiding. In the evening Professor Bischoff, of Concordia college, will lead in the service, which will be in the English language, and to this service a general invitation is extended to German and English citizens alike. Emanuel's has one of the most flourishing congregations in the state, and Rev. Gross, who has had charge of the flock for twelve years, might well be proud of it.

AN expression heard 999 times during the day is, "It is hot."

NEWS gathering, when the thermometer is ninety-four in the shade, is not easy work.

DON'T kick about the weather. It does no good. Pull off your coat and grin and bear it.

YESTERDAY was a scorcher. The thermometer registered ninety-six in the shade during the afternoon.

THIS week will end the month of July. Next Monday will be the first day of August and it will be another hot month.

THE adherants of the peoples party in this city will meet tomorrow night for the purpose of organizing a Weaver and Field's club.

OUR SOLDIER boys will win honors at the state encampment. They are brave and handsome and will reflect credit upon Fort Wayne.

IT TAKES a pretty well defined crank to claim that the labor troubles in Pennsylvania will help the republican ticket in the campaign of this year.

SECRETARY CHARLEY FOSTER says that he had no thought of resigning his office. It is just to the public to say that no one thought he would. Charley will remain in the cabinet.

IF THE commissioners would offer a reward for the capture of Strayer, the murderer of Johnson, the officers of the law would probably make a more diligent effort to find the escaped criminal.

HON. D. L. HARDING, who was elected mayor of this city on the republican ticket and who has always been a republican, has announced his intention to vote for Cleveland and Stephenson this year.

THE law compelling dogs to be muzzled went into effect today, and hereafter all canines of value, and some of no account, will be seen with their heads in cages. It seems a cruel proceeding yet if people must have dogs they must protect the public from their frolicksome desire to mangle the trouser legs of passers-by.

REV. NELSON, of Spencerville, Ind., delivered an interesting address at the City Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. He is here in the interest of the general synod of the Evangelical Lutheran church, and expects to be able to organize a congregation in this city. He will hold services at the City Y. M. C. A. one week from next Sunday morning.

THE shooting of Chairman Frick, of the Carnegie company, is a deplorable occurrence, plainly the act of a crank or a madman. There can be nothing but condemnation for such a dastardly deed, but it will probably be the misfortune of the locked out workmen to suffer because of it, innocent as they are either of inspiring it or sympathizing with it.

DURING this period of extremely warm weather a word concerning the matter of proper sanitation is not amiss. There are many alleys and private premises in the city whose condition is far from healthful, and in the hot rays of the sun disease is likely to be bred in these foul places. The city board of health is active in these matters, but a little personal attention to the matter of proper sanitation will not only greatly aid the board, but may remove dire possibilities of disease. Clean up.

HON. CLAUDE MATTHEWS, democratic nominee for governor of Indiana, has returned to Indianapolis from New York, where he went especially to meet Grover Cleveland, Adlai E. Stevenson and members of the national committee. Mr. Matthews says that the gathering of democrats at the Madison Square garden at the notification meeting was equal to the largest national convention ever held. The immense popularity of Cleveland in New York, Mr. Matthews says, surprised many democratic visitors who had been led to infer that there existed some coldness toward the ex-president in New York. Every visitor returned home satisfied that New York will give Cleveland a large majority. Tammany hall could not be more enthsiastic now for Cleveland. By special invitation Mr. Matthews met Mr. Cleveland at ex-Secretary Whitney's house, and held a long conference with the ex-president. Mr. Matthews met several prominent democrats from New Jersey, Connecticut and West Virginia, including the committeemen from those states, and they count them certain for Cleveland. Chairman Harrity will have the active co-operation of William C. Whitney in the campaign, as well as the assistance of Brice and Gorman.

WHILE in New York a number of the Christian Endeavor delegates visited the stock exchange in a body—four or five hundred of them. Business being dull, a number of the brokers on the floor began singing, "Shall We Gather at the River?" The visitors in turn treated the brokers to "Nearer My God to Thee." The brokers responded with "Hold the Fort," after which everybody joined in good old "America." 'Tis said the effect was grand. Never before within the memory of the oldest members of the stock exchange has business been suspended for the purpose of joining in sacred minstrels. The brokers might have been worse employed—would have been had they continued their usual employment of shearing the lambs.

MR CLARENCE COOK, who for the last three years has been connected with THE SENTINEL as city editor, has resigned that position to enter into business for himself. He has associated with him Mr. Frank C. Tolan, the well known job printer, and the two will carry on the job printing business in an office on East Berry street, which will be splendidly equipped with all the latest type and machinery. Mr. Cook's resignation will not take effect until the latter part of this week, and in the meantime he will continue to do local work on this paper. His departure from our working ranks will be regretted by everyone connected with THE SENTINEL, for he was a universal favorite. Always kind, always pleasant, always busy, he won friends on every hand, and retained them, pleasing not only this paper's patrons but also the proprietor, who regrets to lose his reportorial services. He was one of the best pencil pushers that was ever on a newspaper in the city, a splendid news gatherer and a versatile writer, and newspaper readers will miss him. THE SENTINEL wishes Mr. Cook success in his new business venture and bespeaks for the new firm, which will be known as the Tolan & Cook Printing company, a liberal patronage.

FRICK'S LIFE.

The Career of the Assassin's Intended Victim.

H. C. Frick, of the Carnegie Steel company, who was shot Saturday by an assassin, was born in Fayette county in December, 1845. His first business experience was obtained at a very early age in A. Overholt's whisky distillery, but when he was barely twenty-one he was already interested in a coke making plant and before long he had embarked as an operator on his own account. He made his first big strike about 1872, when, having built a branch railroad from Bradford to Mt. Pleasant, he sold it to the Baltimore and Ohio at a handsome profit. The money that he made in this deal he immediately invested in coal land and additional coke works. By January, 1882, the coke interests held by him and E. M. and Wilton Ferguson had reached such magnitude that Carnegie Brothers & Co. paid $1,500,000 for a half interest in them. Mr. Frick then bought the Standard company's works, the J. M. Shoemaker plant and the Connellsville coal and coke company's property, bringing the whole property up to between 20,000 and 25,000 acres of land, which, with later purchases, bring their holdings up to more than 35,000 acres of the very best coal land. The company has nearly 10,000 coke ovens. On the death of David A. Stewart in December, 1888, Andrew Carnegie, recognizing the great business ability of Mr. Frick, offered him an interest in the firm of Carnegie & Brothers and Carnegie, Phipps & Co., which Mr. Frick accepted and paid for. He at once was made chairman of Carnegie Brothers & Co., and when all the Carnegie interests were consolidated July 1, Mr. Frick became chairman of the new company and the active head of the immense business. Mr. Frick married Miss Childs some years ago and they have two children who share with them a beautiful home in the east end.

Last Thursday evening Miss Mary Larimore entertained friends in a pleasant manner at her home on Walton avenue. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Crary, Mr. and Mrs. Crocker, Misses Mae Guisebert, of McClure, Ohio; Miss Hattie Shafer, of Lima, Ohio; Misses Anna Parrant, Anna Newton and Mary Larimore; Messrs. Geo. Strasser, W. McElvee, S. Young, Frank Miland and James Larimore. Music and games were the principal features of the evening.

THE REIGN OF PLUTOCRACY.

GROWTH TELEPHONE BUSINESS.

Even the Company's Figures Show Tremendous Increase of Profits.

The enormous increase in the demand for telephone service in the United States is shown by a bulletin from the census department in the series of statistics of manufactures. In the census year 1879-80 the telephone business passed through the stages of an extraordinary development, springing at a single bound from almost nothing to one of the most important interests in the country, but the Omaha Bee says that before the statistics of that year were completed it had become quite extensive and important. In 1880 the number of companies, firms and persons engaged in the business of providing the people with telephone facilities was 148, but in 1890 the number was only fifty-three, showing the results of absorption of the weaker by the stronger. In the meantime the amount invested increased $57,735,949 and the number of telephones and transmitters increased 358,718. The number of subscribers in 1890 was 227,357, an increase of 178,943 in ten years. The total number of conversations reported in the same year was 453,200,000. The total number of miles of wire in 1890 was 240,412, an increase of 600.81 per cent. over 1880. The total number of employes of telephone companies in 1890 was 8,645, nearly three times as many as in 1880.

The most interesting statistics relating to the telephone business are those which have to do with its profits. The total interest bearing and profit sharing investments amounted in 1890 to $72,341,736. The gross earnings were $1,404,583, the net earnings $5,260,712, the aggregate dividends $3,168,208, and the surplus $2,092,504. The per cent. of net earnings on the total investment is 7.21. How far these figures, which are, of course, given by the companies themselves, are worthy of confidence, cannot be conjectured. It has been supposed by most people that the profits of the telephone companies were much larger than they are here shown to be, though it does not appear that they are insignificant by any means, even on a basis of millions of fictitious stocks.

Only Republicans Participate in its Organization.

Saturday evening a large number of soldiers and soldiers' sons met at the Rifles' armory pursuant to the call issued by P. Dickinson, John Soliday, B. W. Skelton, C. M. Rouser, Scott Swann, G. D. Adams, R. G. Renfrew, A. Dougherty, W. F. Geller, F. N. Kollock, F. W. Keil, J. H. Keil, James Liggitt and T. W. Blair, and organized a club to be known as the Union club. Only republicans were present. The following officers were elected:

Take Good Care of the Children.

If you have children, you will be interested in the experience of Mr. John Cook, of Pilot, Vermilion, Ill. He says: "Two years ago two of my family, a young man and a girl, had very severe and dangerous attacks of bloody flux. The doctor here was unable, after a week's time, to check or relieve either case. I threw the doctor overboard and began using Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. Improvement was seen very soon, and my children arose in a few days from what I feared would be their deathbed. It is a grand, good medicine. For sale by druggists.

CIRCUS NEWS.

The Great Sells and Renfrow's Enormous Railroad Shows,

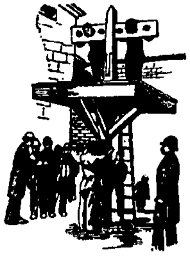
Which is to exhibit in Fort Wayne Monday, August 8, is highly endorsed by the press of the state. The Louisville Courier-Journal contains the following: "This excellent circus and menagerie was well patronized yesterday afternoon and evening, and it well deserved the enormous crowd which flocked to the capacious tents. The menagerie shows up all that has been advertised, and the ring performances were excellent, comprising many very difficult, attractive acts never before presented here. The riding was good. The clowns introduced many new comicalities, and the feats of the acrobats, jugglers and contortionists were marvelous, and astonished and delighted all."

POST AND PILLORY.

At Wilmington, Del., Criminals Are Punished in a Good Old Way.

The agitation which was begun some time ago in Wilmington, Del., for the abolishment of the pillory and whipping post may be said to have died a natural death. The general sentiment there is that these methods of punishment are the most effective that can be devised for offenses which grow out of maliciousness rather than actual criminal instincts.

The whipping-post, surmounted by the pillory, stands in the jail yard, and is an object of great curiosity to strangers. It is a sturdy square timber about fifteen feet high, planted firmly in the ground. To it the man who is to be wipped is tied by the hands. His back is bared, and the lashes are administered with a regulation cat-o'-nine tails



WHIPPING-POST AND PILLORY.

A little more than half way up this timber a platform eight or nine feet has been built, upon which the victims of the pillory stand, with necks and hands securely locked in a board fastened just far enough above the platform to make it impossible for the culprits to stand upright. It would be hard to imagine a more uncomfortable position than the one this contrivance forces a man to assume.

One of the arguments in favor of the whipping-post is the effect it has on wife-beaters in this city. Since public whipping was adopted as a punishment for that most contemptible offense the number of cases called to the attention of the authorities has decreased almost one-half.

OF all sights which can soften and humanize the heart of man, there is none that ought so surely to reach it as that of innocent children, enjoying the happiness which is their proper and natural portion.

Simple Method of Removing Wrinkles.

It is easier to remove winkles than to eradicate any other defect of the face, and yet we daily see many faces, otherwise beautiful, rendered prematurely old by that shrinkage of the tissue we call wrinkles. A simple, but positive, treatment is Marquard's Rose Cream, which not only disperses wrinkles speedily but also removes pimples, blotches, eruptions, and lends an exquisite glow and transparency to the complexion. For sale by Meyer Bros. & Co., 9 West Columbia street.

RAILWAY RUMBLINGS.

The Competition for Knights Templar Business Leads to Rate War—Local Affairs.

The cut on passenger rates for the Knights Templar conclave at Denver promises to make as great a disturbance as the Christian Endeavor rate did. The Santa Fe has turned over the hive and let out the bees by cutting the rate from Chicago to $12 for the round trip. The price agreed upon was one fare, or $28.15. A dispatch from Chicago says: "The other roads are filled with consternation by this startling cut. The reason given by the 'Frisco-Atchison people for taking this step exposes a rather surprising state of affairs. They say they were compelled to make the reduction in order to protect themselves against the demoralizing conduct of their competitors. The rate originally agreed upon by the Western Passenger and Trans-Missouri associations for the conclave was one fare for the round trip, making the price of tickets at Chicago $28.15. After establishing this rate the various association lines sent their agents to commanderies of Knights Templar to make arrangements for their transportation and to secure as much patronage as possible. To their surprise they discovered that the Chicago and Alton had stolen a march on them. As long ago as last summer when boycotters were waging war on the Alton that company secured contracts with all the commanderies in Michigan, Indiana and Ohio and a number of Pennsylvania, New York and New England, and made arrangements for the transportation of an immense number of people to the conclave. Before the associations had fixed the rate the Alton had chartered 136 Pullman cars and secured pledges enough to fill them.

"It is claimed that the Rock Island and Burlington then began to offer all sorts of inducements to other commanderies, in violation of their agreements, so that when the Atchison undertook to gather in a share of the business by legitimate means it could make no headway. The representatives of that road claim to have discovered that their competitors have given away, in the shape of free transportation to bands, committees, and commanderies' officials, as well as money donated and reduced charges for sleeping car accommodations, enough to bring the actual cash rate per passenger down to $12. Therefore they have decided to sell tickets at that price. The tickets grant stop over privileges and are limited to return as late as October 11."

There is one train on the Fort Wayne road that does not throw off the great American tramp. That is the butter and egg train which runs into Chicago and other large cities from the country adjacent thereto. As it goes flying through the country people are surprised to see the number of brakemen on the top of the train. Their dress is variegated. There is the fellow returning from the wild and woolly west with the broad brimmed white hat, the boy who has run away from home, the ragged tourist, the mechanic in search of a job, the Irish grader, the "Dago" and the "coon." It is a sight to see these travelers climb down from the top of the cars when a station is reached, rush to the platform and under the direction of the conductor and his crew hustle the cases of eggs and firkins of butter into the cars. "All right, go ahead," and the bum crew are on board and off for the next station. This is one case where the tramp earns his railroad fare.

Saved a Woman's Life.

Mr. J. E. Thoroughgood, writing from Georgetown, Delaware, says: "Two teaspoonfuls of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diorrhœa Remedy saved the life of Mrs. Jane Thomas, of this place." He also states that several other very bad cases of bowel complaint there have been cured by this remedy. For sale by druggists.

JOHNNIE'S REFUGE.

Two little feet trudging over the road—
Daylight was fading away;
One little face, very frightened and sad,
Watching the shadows at play;
Two little eyes, looking up to the skies,
One little quivering chin;
Two little lips parted innocently
One little prayer to begin.

One aged form coming over the road—
Daylight was fading away;
One kindly face where from morning till eve
Flitted the sunbeams at play.
Two little eyes again raised to the skies;
Cloudless the one little brow—
"You needn't take care of me longer, dear Lord;
I can see grandfather now."
—Leslie's Weekly.

THE SECOND COURTSHIP.

The soft, hazy glow of early summer was in the air; the white lilies of the big, old-fashioned garden at Mordaunt Grange, tossed their royal heads in the scented gale, and the wild strawberries were beginning to crimson all the slopes. A square, antique old house, with red brick gables and sheets of glistening, green ivy, draping every point and angle, it seemed capacious enough for a host—yet all the dweller it contained was George Medford.

The solitary squire of Mordaunt Grange was walking on his lawn, under the feathery shadow of the drooping elms, his cigar leaving a blue trail of scent and vapor wherever he passed.

He was past thirty, tall and well-moulded, with a bronze-brown hair, hazel eyes, and a square-cut, kindly face—not handsome—yet very pleasant to look upon.

At an early age he had been left utterly dependent upon his own resources. At twenty, he had committed the usual folly of youth—in falling madly in love with a dark-eyed girl, who had come to his native village, brimful of New York airs and graces, visiting some school friend—and had been scornfully rejected; and at twenty-one he had gone to India to hew out his own fortunes.

Fortune, however, forestalled him; and when old George Mordaunt, of Mordaunt Grange, died, and left all his estates and wealth to his young cousin, Medford found the labor of his life completed, almost without an effort on his part.

He was musing over all these things as he walked on the daisy-spangled lawn at Mordaunt Grange, a rich man and a solitary man, and likewise a man afflicted with dire visitation of ennui.

"I suppose," he thought, "I must marry and settle down, as other country gentlemen do, and build up a home and hopes and aspirations for myself. I wonder," and a dreamy, half-sad smile came over his face, "what has become of Sophy Kneeland—pretty Sophy, with the sparkling gray eyes, and pink, satin cheeks, and hair that always would twist itself into curls! I was very much in love with Sophy once. Well, so runs the world away! I was poor and obscure then, and I am rich now, with the prestige of Mordaunt Grange surrounding me; and Sophy is married to some stock-broker, and wears her diamonds and cashmere shawls."

Yet there was an unwonted softness in eye and face as he remembered the light of those marvelous gray eyes, which had been his beacon stars for so long.

"I think," he pondered, "Sophy Kneeland did fancy me after a certain fashion; but she was a coquette, both by nature and education. She was a city belle; I was nothing but a raw country youth. We should meet on more even grounds now. If—"

And then Mr. George Medford suddenly became aware that in the earnestness of his reverie he had allowed his cigar to go out.

As he stood there, leaning against the moss-covered trunk of a huge cedar tree, older by half a century than himself, with the picturesque gables of the porter's lodge rising out of a miniature thicket of dense-growing evergreens, just beyond, a savage growl of Leo, the huge Newfoundland dog, sounded ominously on the air, and a child's cry of apprehension echoed it. Medford stepped forward.

"Down Leo," he said, laying his hand on the dog's collar, and perceiving at the same instant, an elfin-like child, with great gray eyes, and hair blown all about her face, while upon one arm she carried a covered basket.

"Are you the gentleman of this place?" she asked, still eyeing Leo rather dubiously, as if she was not quite certain whether he might not yet break away from his restraining chain.

"Yes, I am;" Medford answered. "Did you wish to see me?"

She came frankly and freely toward him.

"Please buy some of my shells," she said. "My uncle brought them from Madagascar. We had them in a cabinet before papa lost all his money and died; and people used to say how pretty they were. Will you buy some?"

To Medford this was a novel way of soliciting patronage. She sat down on the sloping bank.

"Let me look at them," said he.

"You're sure the dog won't run at me again?" she asked, somewhat irresolutely.

"Not while I am here."

As if reassured by this, she came to him, and, kneeling on the soft green at his feet, began to seek out her little stock in trade and arrange it to the best advantage.

"Don't you see how pretty they are?" she asked triumphantly.

She was right; the shells were exceedingly rare and beautiful, gold-streaked and lipped with carmine and pearly gray, and twisted into every possible variety of convoluted forms.

"This is a trumpet shell," said the girl, lifting up one rosy specimen which was, in reality, not unlike a long and slender-throated bugle. "Uncle Daire used to say the sea-nymphs used to call their lovers back with them when they sailed over the sea."

"And did they come?"

The girl lifted her gray eyes wonderingly to his face.

"But you know that was only a story; there are no sea-nymphs or mermaids. These big shells are for a mantel; they used to be in sister Sophy's room."

"Have you got a sister Sophy," asked Medford, idly fingering the shells, more for the passing amusement of the hour than aught else. "Does she sell shells, too?"

"No," said this strange little visitant, setting her lips demurely together. "Sister Sophy is a lady, I am nothing but a little girl. Sister Sophy doesn't like to be stared at; she would rather stay at home and sew."

"And where are all the rest of you?"

"There is only Sophy and me. I wish," she added gravely, "you would buy those mantel shells; Sophy said if I could sell them they would pay the month's rent and buy new floss for her embroidery work."

"You are a pretty good little saleswoman," laughed Medford. "Well, I'll buy the shells of you since you are so anxious. How much are they?"

"Five dollars apiece."

"I am very much obliged to you," said the little girl gravely as she rose to go.

"But you haven't told me your name yet," said Medford, half from real curiosity, half from a motive of teasing banter, for the child's odd, mature manner rather amused him than otherwise.

"Alice Kneeland," she replied, with the utmost gravity.

He started up.

"Alice Kneeland! And your sister's name is Sophy? Why, I knew a Sophy Kneeland once; but, pshaw! they can never be the same. The Miss Kneeland I used to know lived in New York."

"So did we once," said Alice, "before we grew poor. I can just remember the big house on Walton street, and the open carriage mamma used to ride in with the pair of bay horses."

"Where do you live?" abruptly demanded Medford.

"In the little cottage just beyond Dawson's mill; you know where—"

"But I am a stranger here; I don't know anything about your mills and cottages. Will you go with me and show me where it is?"

"But the shells?"

"We will leave them here with Leo to guard them."

"Come, then," and Alice gravely took the stranger's hand.

Sophy Kneeland was sitting by the window, sewing as swiftly as if her shining needle had been endowed with electricity, when, happening to glance up, she saw Alice crossing the green in front of the humble little residence, with a tall man walking at her side.

"Oh, Sophy!" frank little Alice cried out, with a child's blessed unconsciousness of embarrassment or etiquette, "this is a gentleman who says he once knew you!"

And Sophy Kneeland, without an instant for preparation or thought, found herself confronted with her lover of ten years ago.

He met her with a quiet cordiality that at first somewhat puzzled her; but at length the scarlet dye subsided from her cheek and the flutter from her heart, and she found herself answering his questions, and soon volunteering little remarks of her own, and before he took his leave she had promised to allow him to come again.

"As an old friend, you know," he said cheerily, and Sophy Kneeland assented.

"As an old friend." But when he was gone, she caught herself wondering how she could ever have been mad enough to refuse his love!

Six months afterwards, little Alice, running on the terrace at Mordaunt Grange, with her now faithful attendant Leo at her side, came suddenly on Sophy, standing in the bay window, with Mr. Medford at her side. The child checked herself abruptly.

"Why, Sophy!" she cried, "what makes your cheeks so red?"

"Because," Mr. Medford answered for her, "I have just asked her an impertinent question!"

"And did she reply to it?" asked Alice with somewhat of innocent wonder in her face.

"She has not as yet."

Alice turned her eyes toward her sister, and Sophy took courage.

"I have not answered it yet; but I am quite ready to do so."

"And the answer?" asked Medford.

"Is yes."

"But," eagerly questioned Alice, "what was the question—please tell me."

"I asked her if she would be my wife, little Miss Inquisitive!" laughed Medford.

"And she said 'yes?'"

"You heard her."

"Oh!" cried Alice, clapping her hands "how nice! Then I shall have a real brother of my own!"

The Slaughter of Birds.

It has been computed that every bird of the rarer species—such as the humming bird, the orange and scarlet cock of the rock, the oriole and the kingfisher—that is worn on a woman's headgear, at least ten have suffered the death pang; counting the young who die of starvation, the wounded which fly away to drop down and die in the woods or among the reeds, and those which are mutilated and destroyed by the pellets so much as to be invaluable for the purpose of decoration.

Do not make a mistake in buying family medicine: Moffat's Pills cures all stomach and liver diseases, and purifies the blood. Try them.

Desertions from the army in Great Britain cost the country about $600,000.
